

Skilled Trade and General Staffing

The core business that Work Force Network, Inc. was founded upon is skilled trade/general labor staffing. Since its inception WFN has provided quality employees for customers in every industry including manufacturing facilities, packaging facilities, food production plants, catering events, restoration projects, and more.

From high-volume accounts to specific-trade positions, Work Force Network screens all employees for qualification, conducts national background checks, and drugs tests every employee we send to work. Running extensive orientation and training sessions, WFN provides reliable labor at an affordable cost.

Potential candidates are all subject to extensive orientation and training sessions.

- Work Force Network's orientation sessions are specifically tailored to the rules and regulations of our individual customers utilizing video, print literature, and our employee handbook. Each employee representing WFN is fully orientated before being assigned to work for our customers.
- Work Force Network provides training sessions tailored to optimize efficiency and maximize safety, specifically in the case of skilled trade labor that may prove hazardous without the proper instructions. All Work Force Network's placements are trained in proper techniques of their job function, regardless of past experience.
- Aside from math and logic testing, Work Force Network also provides specialized testing on specific functions such as reading multimeters, calipers, and gauges, identifying product deficiencies, and conflict resolution questions tests to make sure we are providing a qualified and reliable employee to our customers.

With an entire division of recruiters and account managers devoted to skilled trades/general labor, WFN works around the clock to provide staffing for our customers, always hitting our numbers, while finding employees that will exceed our customers' expectations.

Work Force Network's Staffing disciplines include:

- Machine operators
(CNC, bandsaw, drill press, crane operators)
